Anniversary of Adoption of the Stars and Stripes to Be Observed.

HOLIDAY IS PROCLAIMED

EXERCISES AT LIBERTY PARK AND AT ELKS' LODGE ROOMS.

"By the Governor of the State of Utah, a proclamation.
"Monday, June 14, 1909, being the one hundred and thirty-second anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes as the flag of the United States, I, William Spry, governor of the state of Utah, do recommend the observance of this day as Flag day, and urge every public officer, every teacher of the youth in our state and the editor of all newspapers to call public attention to that day, and to provide for public exercises and general celebration of the day through the state of Utah by a proper display of the flag."

This is the one hundred and thirty-second anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes as the flag of the United States, and "Old Glory" will be honored in every state in the country today.

Every citizen of Salt Lake has been asked to display a flag from his home and place of business.

The day will be observed by the G. A. R., Women's Relief Corps, Ladies of G. A. R., Daughters of Veterans, Sons of Veterans and their families at Liberty park. The ladies will go to the park early in the afternoon, and will prepare a lunch for the comrades and sons to be served about 4 o'clock.

Flag day exercises will be held at the Elks' lodge rooms at 8:15 this evening. This will be the first presentation in Salt Lake of the flag, which was adopted by the order less than a year ago. In addition to the regular part of the ritual, which is said to be very beautiful and unique, several musical selections and short addresses on the flag will be given. The exercises will be open to all Elks and their families, and those who may be invited. The decorations for those who may attend. The decorations have been provided in the lodge room for those who may attend. The decorations have been provided in the lodge room for those who may attend. POLL TAX ORDINANCE COMES UP TONIGHT

Martin Resolution Directed Against Gambling Said to Have Been Buried.

The city council will this evening pass the ordinance relating to poll taxes in conformity with recent legislation by the state fixing the tax at $3 instead of $5, and making it all payable in cash instead of cash and labor. There is little of importance besides this to come up. It is not at all probable that the ordinance of the councilman L. D. Martin looking toward the suppression of gambling at the fair grounds will again see the light. The councilman recommended the ordinance did not appear at the last meeting to press his resolution, which went to the municipal laws committee, where it has been quietly but efficiently buried.

There will be some discussion over the special permit to L. B. Rowers to provide a place in the old continental hotel yards for farmers and others bringing in produce to stand their teams. The markets committee recommended the permit, but there was some opposition on sanitary grounds and some other stands have been suggested.

Some other sanitary matters are in the hands of the committee and may come before the council. More pay is recommended for fumigators and quarantining inspectors who are exposed to contagion, but they will not get under the decision of the administration to raise no more salaries this year.

"The Master at Arms," a romantic drama will be the bill at the Columbia all week, beginning tonight. This will be Ralph Stuart's last week in Salt Lake.

PRESSING THEIR CLAIM.

Paris, June 13.—It is stated here that the Spanish minister to Cuba has handed the Cuban government a note embodying a claim for the payment of a share of the Spanish debt. It is pointed out in the note that the American plenipotentiaries in Paris in 1898 refused to decide this point. Adding that the republic had decided on the Cuban republic and not the United States. The Spanish government now considers that the time has arrived to press the claim, the republic having assumed sovereignty.

Unfortunates in City Jail Are Deeply Moved by Religious Services.

HOLIDAY IS PROCLAIMED

EXERCISES AT LIBERTY PARK AND AT ELKS' LODGE ROOMS.

"All who wish to be prayed for will please raise their right hands," said Rev. D. B. Scott at the regular religious services held under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. in the police courtroom for the benefit of prisoners each Sunday.

Nine hands went up—those of the twelve prisoners present, and these same nine unfortunates, with a "sense of sincerity," went to the pews and begged to be prayed for.

Through a weekly meeting, the services yesterday were a bit out of the ordinary, for the reason that for once, perhaps the first time on record, it seemed that nine men of the small congregation really were honest in their request for religious aid.

"This is no stall," said one of them, speaking the lingo of his kind. "I ain't making this play just to get your confidence and have you get me out of jail. I mean it. I want to do right. I don't want to be any church member or anything like that. I just want someone to advise me and give me the right kind of help so I can go along and get started on the square and live right and honest. That's all I'm looking for. I'm tired of this other kind of life."

Story of the Twelve.

Rev. Scott led the service, assisted by Miss Grace E. G. Meador, deaconess of the Women's home. The minister took for his theme the story of the twelve apostles, one of whose number had turned traitor, and for his text, "Ye shall be a kingdom of priests." The speaker spoke in the plainest English at his command; he was not a bit of a showman, and his moral in a manner that would produce the most striking effect on his hearers.

It was perhaps as much the singing of "I Am Coming Home," "Jesus My Cross Have Taken," as it was the religious story told by the minister that drew the response from the prisoners.

No sooner had the last notes of the last song died away than all of them were in the arms of the minister, who had followed them sobbed bitterly, sobbed perhaps for the first time in years.

It is the intention of the Rev. Scott and Miss Meador to hold a similar service and their efforts in converting the nine unfortunates who asked for help.

DR. CLARKE ADDRESSES ENDAVOR SOCIETIES

"Watchman, what of the night?" was the text of the address which Dr. F. E. Clarke of Boston delivered to a union meeting of representatives of the different Christian Endeavor societies of Salt Lake held at the First Methodist Episcopal church at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Clarke told of the dawn of religion in all parts of the world, and went on to show how Christianity and the love of Jesus Christ is growing in every country. He said that the night of sin and unbelief is giving place to the morning of true faith and happiness in all portions of the globe. There is no cause for anyone to believe that the world is growing worse, instead of better, he declared. He declared that there were hand there are signs which point to the advancement of goodness, love and the fear of God.

Dr. Clarke is the international secretary of the Christian Endeavor society. He visits all the large conventions in his work, and at the Seattle Christian Endeavor convention two years ago took one of the most active parts at the meetings. In two weeks he will be present at the convention to be held in St. Paul.

Rev. P. A. Simpkins presided at the meeting yesterday afternoon. Besides the speaker, the following were present: vocal solos by Miss Shaw and Raymond Brown.

THIEVES LOOT ROOM WHILE VICTIM SLEEPS

Daring Prowlers Steal Watches and Money From Ogden Man Who Visits Salt Lake.

R. S. Jenkins, a railroad brakeman of Ogden, slept soundly in his room at the Salt Lake hotel, 220 West Second South street, while a thief robbed him of $50 in money, two gold watches, some valuable papers and the return portion of a ticket from Salt Lake to Ogden.

Not until he and Mrs. Jenkins awoke yesterday morning was the robbery discovered. The thief had been in the room all night and the key was still in the lock. It is believed that the intruder unlocked it with a pick. The window had not been raised and there was no other means of entrance in the room. Accompanied by his wife, Jenkins came down from Ogden Saturday afternoon to stay over Sunday.

One of the stolen watches belonged to Mrs. Jenkins and was valued at $25. The other, belonging to Mr. Jenkins, was taken from his vest pocket. The money and other valuables were taken with a leather pocketbook which he carried in an inside coat pocket.

A private safe may be rented in the fire and burglar proof vault of the Salt Lake Security & Trust Co., 32 up Main street, $3.00 per year and upwards.

ANNIVERSARY MEETING.

New York, June 13.—Representative John Kahn of California was one of the speakers today at the convention of the Benevolent order of Elks, which met to celebrate its fiftieth birthday.

President Taft and Vice President Sherman sent letters of regret. The order was incorporated under the laws of New York in 1859. It has a membership of 50,000, distributed among 241 lodges throughout the country. Since its organization, $10,000,000 has been paid in benefits and $7,000,000 to the sick and needy.

KING LEOPOLD'S BLUFF.

Antwerp, June 13.—King Leopold made a remarkable speech here on the occasion of the festivities in connection with the annexation of the Congo to the Belgian state. He said that the gift of Congo to Belgium was the greatest satisfaction of his life. He declared that the Congo would play a most important part in the expansion of Belgium.

DEATH EXPECTED.

Rio Janeiro, June 13.—Alfonso Moreira Penna, president of Brazil, is gravely ill, and tonight the ministers were summoned to the palace.

NEIGHBORHOOD PET WANDERS AWAY AND REWARD OFFERED

Nig, Oldest Horse in City and Privileged Pensioner, Is Believed to Have Responded to the Call of the Wild.

Nig, 35 years of age, and said to be the oldest horse in the city, was numbered among the graying seniors. Up to a late hour he had not been found. A liberal reward has been offered by his owner, Captain Mark M. Woods, superintendent of the Salt Lake Charity association, for his return. For Nig is more loved and held at higher value than anything else possessed by Captain Woods, and his loss would be felt as keenly as the loss of a member of his own family. It was because of this deep love that Captain Woods, with a number of Nig's admirers, formed a searching party and scoured the city for him. In the barn at the rear of Captain Woods' home, 122 West Fifth South street, Nig occupies an elaborate stall. One entire section of the stable has been separately partitioned for his quarters, and it is said that not even the bluest of bluebloods is better cared for or has a home that is more finely appointed.

Welcome Everywhere.

From his "apartments" Nig wandered forth yesterday afternoon. He has been in the habit of making regular afternoon excursions away from the premises, but never has he been known to prolong his stay there more than two or three hours. He is known to nearly every one in the section of the city. No bridle or halter is ever seen about his well-groomed neck, nor is any other precaution ever taken to hold him in check. He wanders at will, his greatest pleasure being to see the flowers. The vacant lots and flower garden, munch the grass or nose into the flowers. He is a great favorite with the part of the city hold special attraction for him, and by regular daily visits he keeps the grass green and the flowers in bloom. But Nig is 35 years old. And he is said to be approaching second childhood. The fears of his owner and his admirers are that he will wander away for more than two or three hours, at his most, when he will not put in an appearance after such long time they had reason to grow alarmed. It cannot be said of Nig that he is in his dotage. He is as spry as a two-year-old, and for that reason they fear he may have got into some mischief. A less scrupulous horse may have yielded some strange influence over Nig and led him astray. He may have been influenced to go out into the country and "on the tramp."

Probably Led Astray.

All of Nig's haunts were investigated by the searching party. Evidence of his recent visits—his tracks, his hair, or so before they arrived—were discovered. He was traced from place to place. In a vacant lot several blocks from his home the hoof prints of another horse were revealed. From that spot the pair was traced through an alley and over the public square to the city hall, where more could be learned about them.

Why Nig should wish to run away is a puzzle. For several years he has had nothing to do but enjoy himself. Captain Woods fitted up the separate stall for the old horse and turned him into a separate pasture to roam at will and to spend the time according to his own wishes during the closing years of his life. The freedom and relaxation from many previous years of hard work wrought a change in him and he seems to have grown more and more content with his morning as early as 6 o'clock, romping and kicking and rearing, with the vigor of the greatest of them, wish in recent years was to be able to turn over the ground and this rolling operation was a great undertaking when he arises in the morning.

It is known that Nig is at least 35 years old. Captain Woods has owned him for thirty-three years. His pedigree and pedigree shows him to have been two years old when he came into his possession. He is a great favorite with the part of the city hold special attraction for him, and by regular daily visits he keeps the grass green and the flowers in bloom. But Nig is 35 years old. And he is said to be approaching second childhood. The fears of his owner and his admirers are that he will wander away for more than two or three hours, at his most, when he will not put in an appearance after such long recting and ameliorating the wrongs, must not lose heart because they cannot stop these wrongs. God, the Holy Spirit himself, cannot put a stop to human sin and selfishness until human will permit him to do so.

Therefore, Christians, be carefully and vigorously standing for the just and the fair, must not be discouraged if in spite of all their efforts, wrongs go on. They have simply to hold and promote belief in the traditions, and the first principles, and then must to a certain degree, leave the mysteries of free will to work themselves out.

Girls' Friendly Society.

In his sermon before the Girls' Friendly society he told how they could work and do great good along the lines of the three great divine institutions, which he classified, first as the family; second, the church; third, the church. Their work for the first class is simply to extend the good of the family, their work for the second was to mold public opinion, which, he said, really governs the world; and their work for the third, the church, was to extend the good of the church, which he said, really governs the world; and their work for the third, the church, was to extend the good of the church, which he said, really governs the world.

The consecration of Dean Brewster on Thursday will mark one of the most important events in the history of the Episcopal church in Utah. Never before has a clergyman resident in Utah been called to the office of bishop. There are but 104 bishops of the American Episcopal church, and it is considered a distinguished honor which has been given to the Very Rev. Benjamin Brewster of St. Mark's cathedral, and to the city which he has resided for the last three years.

Chicago's Invasion of West As Viewed by Chicago Newspaper Man

This is just about what the composite idea of the west means to a member of the delegation from the Chicago Association of Commerce which arrived in Salt Lake Sunday morning and left in the evening for Ogden, to continue the 1,000 mile journey through the west and north west back to the city by Lake Michigan.

At each stop made by the Chicago special train, some member of the delegation has had his own individual ideas of what he wanted to see. In some cities this or that member wished to view the lumber mill, while others cared more about looking over the residence districts.

Dean of the Party.

Charles Seegers, president of the American Varnish company, whose 75 years of experience in the business world is known as Edward Clifford, chairman of the delegation. The standing army composed of John McCarthy, a banker who was dragged from his stationery and taken to 2 o'clock and decked with a large star and a regulation "billy." To him is entrusted the duty of seeing that all "maids," "pinches" and "cups" are stopped before the players drop from exhaustion. A judge has been appointed with jurisdiction over the entire train. He holds court as seldom as possible.

The only persons on the train who have followed out their regular line of work have been the newspaper correspondents. Under the direction of Hubert F. Miller, assistant general manager of the association, the newspaper men, including local correspondents from each of the Chicago morning papers and a representative of the Associated Press, have been getting out "The Daily Grind," a little publication that deals with the day's doings with jurisdiction over the entire train. He holds court as seldom as possible.

Traveling across the country, endeavoring to see all its wonders in an allotted time has its drawbacks, and also its pleasures. The Chicagoans left Chicago with the idea that there was to be a pleasure trip, but they have made it one of the most strenuous of the season.

The special train is a traveling kingdom. Its ruler is "King Edward the One," who is the business world is known as Edward Clifford, chairman of the delegation. SECOND WARD VOTERS MEET TUESDAY NIGHT

A meeting will be held on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, in the Pioneer hall, to which voters of the Second municipal ward in favor of putting a citizens' ticket in the field next fall are invited. The purpose is to discuss that matter and to effect, if desired, a political ward-party. The call for the meeting is signed by Hjalmar Carlquist, secretary of the conference committee elected a couple of weeks ago at a meeting held in the Sixth ecclesiastical ward-amusement hall by representatives of the Second municipal ward.

Dr. West, dentist has removed to 249 Main street, Houston block.

Wonderful-Greatest-ever!—seventy-five times. Get back to the train just as the whistle is blowing. Spend the time until the next stop washing up and then repeat above. Vary by luncheon as guests of city. Repeat twice more until supper time. Retire at any time.

But during the trip the eyes of the Chicagoans have been opened to the possibilities of the west. And the greatest thing noticed by the visitors has been that the west seems to realize its own possibilities. Every place visited has shown signs of commercial prosperity. The recent panic seems to have been a name in the west. If all the signs have been as good as these, the west is a land of opportunity.

And when the Chicago special train arrives in Chicago next Thursday, forty western boosters will leave it firmly determined to tell the rest of Chicago of the chances lying in the mountains and plains beyond the Mississippi.

TRIES PREACHING, THEN USES FIISTS

Hays Tries to Convince Lodger That Service at Volunteers' Hotel Is O. K.

"Billy" Hays, a member of the Volunteers of America, found pugilistic methods more effective than religious preaching when called upon to win over an alleged sinner yesterday afternoon.

Besides preaching the gospel, Hays, who is well known in the city as a volunteer, acted as clerk in the hotel conducted by the Volunteers on Commercial street.

When T. W. Smith complained about the poor service given there and declared Hays responsible, Hays responded with an impromptu sermon and quoted a few proverbial sayings which he believed applicable to the circumstances.

"I don't want to hear any of that sky pilot rot," replied Smith in anger. "I'll tell you something about better service at this point, or don't let me nothin'."

With a last hope of soothing the dissatisfied guest, Hays resorted to the old-fashioned method of quoting the Bible, especially appealed to him, when Smith turned out a stiff right straight from the shoulder.

Hays declined to turn the other cheek. He dropped his ministerial dignity and showed his anger. As it is Hays' duty to act as a volunteer, he was acting as a volunteer.

Because Hays did get the better of his antagonist is probably the reason that he alone was arrested. It was said by witnesses that Smith, after the usual that he struck the first blow, and was really the instigator of the fight, though he was not the one who started it.

While Hays was sent to jail and had to put up a bond of $50 before securing his release, Smith was ordered to court this morning, while Smith was ordered to testify against him.

MORE CONTRACTS IN SIGHT FOR P. J. MORAN

The city board of public works will hold a meeting on Friday evening for the purpose of awarding three contracts for street paving to P. J. Moran. Mr. Moran has been the outside bidder for some time back on street paving work, and has had all of the work. He will probably be the only bidder on this work, unless a bid should be put in by the Barber Asphalt company. The work to be handed out Friday evening will amount to an estimated expenditure of $100,000.

The three contracts for which tenders will be received are for street paving extending 100 feet on State street from Seventh South to Eighth South, 400 feet on First West street, from South Temple to Third South streets.

The work on State street is estimated to cost $50,000; that on Eighth South, $20,000; and that on First West street, $30,000. The city's portion of the whole thing is estimated at approximately $25,000. The city is abutting property owners will pay the balance.

Contract will be awarded at this meeting for cross walks, amounting to somewhere in the vicinity of $1
